Call for Expressions of Interest

Committee Members for the Australasian Journal of Early Childhood

Early Childhood Australia (ECA) is seeking members for the Australasian Journal of Early Childhood (AJEC) Committee.

As part of the essential criteria, applicants are required to:

• have knowledge of the early childhood sector, and at least a master’s degree or higher in a relevant area
• be a member of ECA
• ensure that they are operating in ways consistent with the ECA Code of Ethics
• have a track record as a published author of peer-reviewed academic articles
• provide evidence of scholarship and/or experience in research
• commit time and contribute to the review and referee process
• attend online committee meetings (after selection, if any committee members miss more than two consecutive meetings, they may be asked to forfeit their position)
• attend AJEC research events
• demonstrate expertise in working in the online environment.

Desirable qualities include:

• knowledge of ECA as an organisation
• graduate or research degree in an early childhood–related field of study
• experience in working with early childhood researchers and professionals (including internationally, particularly the Asia-Pacific region)
• good organisational skills
• demonstrated networking ability
• demonstrated experience in innovation and creativity, and working in a forward-thinking way
• commitment to improving processes.

Please note: This is a voluntary three-year position.
