

Dr Juliana Zabatiero

Dr Juliana Zabatiero is an early career researcher with a PhD in Physiotherapy, and is currently a Postdoctoral Research Fellow with the School of Physiotherapy and Exercise Science at Curtin University. Juliana has over five years experience in conducting qualitative and quantitative research, as well as intervention research in the areas of physical activity and sedentary behaviour in different populations. She has published seven peer-reviewed journal articles in this area and is currently involved in different research projects in the sphere of digital technology use by young children.

